4. When I stopped seeing Dr. King, the reasons were: (check all items which apply)

- I only needed an evaluation, not treatment, and that was accomplished.
- Dr. King felt it would be best if she referred me to a different provider because the work required was not her specialty.
- Problems improved satisfactorily and there was no need to continue.
- We made as much progress as feasible for the time being.
- Dr. King's methods were good, but I found it difficult to follow through or to be consistent, which limited the effectiveness of our work.
- I decided to try a different provider to see if a different approach would bring better results.
- More progress was needed but Dr. King's methods were not helpful.
- I could no longer financially afford treatment.
